Program Overview:

The Junior Herd Builder Program is open to FFA or 4-H members currently enrolled in 8th-12th grade. Participants will develop a pen of heifers for the purpose of future production or sale. Participants will be responsible for securing three (3) heifers of similar age and genetics to develop through the beef production cycle utilizing the UGA Extension Beef Management Calendar as a guide.

Objectives:

- Expose youth to the beef industry of Georgia
- Educate and serve the beef industry of Georgia
- Enhance leadership, decision-making and management skills of youth participants
- Promote animal and environmental stewardship

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

Q: Do I have to buy 3 heifers for this program?

A: No. While buying heifers is an option, heifers can be leased or borrowed as long as you are the primary caregiver during the contest.

Q: Where can I keep my heifers?

A: Your heifers can be kept wherever is best for you. School farms, neighbors/friends farm, parents farm and anywhere else you can think of.

Q: Will there be regional contest?

A: Depending on the level of participation and where the participants are from will determine if regional contest will be established.

Q: Do I have to bring my heifers to the program evaluation?

A: Yes, during the program evaluation heifers are evaluated along with your record book and presentation.

Q: Is there a format I should follow for my record book?

A: No. We do not provide a template for record books as we want this contest to be as realistic as possible. However, you are welcome to use whatever template you would like for record keeping. Some good options are Florida Beef Cattle Ranch Record Book, CattleMax, or something similar to either of these.
